10th Annual Huntsman-Intermountain Cancer Care Program
Wednesday, June 28, 2017
LDS Hospital, Huntsman Education Center

Purpose:
To promote clinical collaboration amongst members and leaders of the HICCP program and provide healthcare information that attendees can utilize to improve care for cancer patients. This activity provides a forum for fostering and inspiring ideas and concepts in cancer research and clinical trial participation. Furthermore, this activity creates a collaborative opportunity for cancer care physicians and researchers to identify best practices that advance and improve clinical excellence of care for certain types of cancer. Finally, this annual meeting allows HICCP leaders an opportunity to inform members of HICCP objectives, principles, goals and annual achievements.

Target Audience: Huntsman-Intermountain Cancer Care Program physician members, leaders, nurses, technical staff and associates.

Objectives:
Upon completion of this activity participants will be able to:

- Review the Huntsman-Intermountain Cancer Care Program objectives, principles, and accomplishments to date
- Relate the economic value of medical research to generate member enthusiasm and participation in future clinical research initiative
- Describe and generate clinical initiatives for the HICCP workgroups designed to develop and research new best practice options in cancer care
